

The Indianapolis Star

Coverage: 1903-1922

To follow the development of the American heartland, start here.

For over 100 years, the largest paper in Indiana has been a watchdog and advocate for its community. Early on, it promoted the creation of the city's first charter, exposed graft by the state's Supreme Court judges, and won a libel suit filed against it by the U.S. government when the paper dared to question Roosevelt's work on the Panama Canal. Three times it has been honored with a Pulitzer Prize—once for meritorious public service and twice for investigative reporting. Serious researchers and casual readers alike also will be interested in the photographs and illustrations captured in this historical newspaper's pages.

To learn about the 1903 train wreck involving the Purdue University football team, relive the excitement of the town's first 500-mile automobile race in 1911, discover the 1914 cartoon that mentions Google, and uncover the 1921 beach revolt in which public censors patrolled the shoreline to ensure that women bathers were not exposing too much neck or too much dimple in the knees, start here!

Illuminate history. Preserve the past.

ProQuest is proud to help you illuminate history for your users while preserving this historic newspaper for future generations. The Indianapolis Star, like all digitized titles within the ProQuest Historical Newspapers™ program, lets researchers:

- Browse complete issues, cover to cover.
- Study the progression of issues over time with ProQuest's complete runs of historical newspapers.
- Cross-search topics and compare coverage and perspectives across all ProQuest Historical Newspapers, such as The New York Times with Index, Chicago Tribune, and St. Louis Post-Dispatch, for broader, often contrasting views of issues and events.

- Search for information by keyword, article type, dates and date ranges, author, and more.
- View not only news articles, but also photos, advertisements, marriage announcements, obituaries, cartoons, and more, for added context.
- Print, download, and share articles and images in PDF format.

Focus on research instead of the mechanics of finding data.

ProQuest makes it easy for both novice researchers and information professionals to find relevant information quickly, with basic and advanced search options. Searches can be confined to specific article types and dates to focus on the most relevant information. Each newspaper page is zoned into article images, and each newspaper image is supported with searchable ASCII text. Combined, these features mean faster, more effective searches for users. ProQuest digitizes documents at a high resolution to deliver clean, readable images, and highlighted search terms focus readers on the most relevant content.

Researchers can sort their results by oldest, most recent, or most relevant. In addition, articles that originally spanned multiple pages of a newspaper are “threaded” together, appearing as one continuous image and improving readability. Users can view and easily download articles, front pages, photos, display ads, and more in PDF format. The “My Research” summary feature can be used to track recent searches, save articles, email documents, create a bibliography, export citations, and create Web pages.
