

ProQuest Dissertations and Theses— UK & Ireland

The complete record of doctoral theses from the United Kingdom and Ireland

Expanding ProQuest Dissertations and Theses content internationally

ProQuest Dissertations and Theses—UK and Ireland (PQDT-UK & Ireland), also known as Index to Theses, is a meticulously compiled collection of citations to British and Irish dissertations and theses.

The corpus of U.K. and Ireland dissertations and master's theses currently comprises over half a million records, with some additional 15,000 citations added annually.

The collection offers:

- A comprehensive listing of theses, with abstracts accepted for higher degrees by universities in the United Kingdom and Ireland, since 1716.
- Access to bibliographic coverage of theses produced by British and Irish universities.
- Bibliographic listings for content for 1950-1986.
- Abstracts from 1986 to current.

The complete record

Valued content that's affordable and precise

The United Kingdom and Ireland boast many of the world's leading research universities. Graduate works from British and Irish institutions have been frequently requested by ProQuest's existing PQDT customers.

And because PQDT-UK & Ireland is on the ProQuest platform, other benefits include:

- No need for training: PQDT—UK & Ireland is as easy as using PQDT. Access this unique collection of dissertation records without having to learn how to navigate a new interface.
- Cross-search with other ProQuest databases, for higher usage rates with less library administration.
- Search PQDT—UK & Ireland records concurrently with PQDT to provide your library users with a complete view of English-language dissertations and theses.
- No more searching across multiple databases—it's all in one place!
- No unique set up or software is required.
